Notes From the Beiseker Lions Club

BEISEKER.—It is hard to realize that the history of Lionism dates back only to 1914 when Mr. Melvin Jones conceived the idea of uniting on the basis of unselfish community service, business men's clubs having no other affiliation, and what a wonderful idea it turned out to be, when one realizes the multitude of community activities Lions Clubs all over the world are working on, for the betterment of their communities as a whole, and what a wide scope of important activities have been undertaken wherever Lions Clubs are formed.

This has resulted from the care with which the individual Lions Clubs are organized, membership selected and activities planned and carried out. By activities it is meant only those that are for unselfish service to the community.

There must be a little of the spirit of Lionism inherent in every man who has the interests of his community at heart, as note the rapid growth of Lionism which now has 7,175 Lions Clubs in 25 countries of the world.

Take, for instance, our own Beiseker Lions Club, members of which have worked hard for their community, to name only one or two of their activities, in sponsoring the building of the Beiseker and district Memorial Hall, an imposing building that would be a credit to any community; the sponsoring and operation of a community picture show which affords entertainment and education to young and old two nights of each week.

And that is only part of their activities which include different committees headed by committee chairmen under the grouping of Boys and Girls, Citizenship and Patriotism, Civic Improvements, Community Betterment, Education, Health and Welfare, Safety, Sight Conservation and Blind. A wonderful medium through which members may serve their community.

Holiday time has rolled around again and many members and their families are taking this opportunity to leave their troubles behind them and enjoy a well-earned vacation. A happy and pleasant trip to all.

Weddings

TUTT-LAVOIE

BEISEKER.—Viola Lavole, daughter of Mrs. A. Givogue and the late Mr. M. Lavole was united in marriage to Mr. Theodore Tutt, second son of Mrs. Tutt of Swallow on Tuesday, June 28.

The bride, gowned in a floor-length dress of white satin and lace and carrying red roses, entered the church on the arm of her eldest brother, Mr. F. J. Lavole. She was attended by Miss Theresa Albert and Miss Betty Wilson, the former dressed in pink nylon net and the latter in a matching blue gown. Both carried carnations.

The groom was supported by his brother Jack, and Mr. Pat Bain of Castor.

A reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Lavole of Bicham for immediate relatives and friends. Fr. A. E. Tennant proposed the toast to the bride.

After a honeymoon in Banff, Mr. and Mrs. Tutt will reside in Drumheller where the former is employed by Canadian Utilities.

TOO MANY TRACTOR MISHAPS

With too great frequency, deaths due to tractor accidents have been reported in recent weeks. In many cases, a tractor being driven along a road has toppled into the ditch, the driver being fatally crushed beneath it. In several, people have been killed when a tractor, operating in a field, has run over them.

Seldom have inquests been called to examine the causes of the mishaps; they have been accepted with an unusual degree of fatalism as an accident that could not be helped.

It may be that drivers of tractors, some of them of the caterpillar type, have felt too secure. The "cats" are especially manoeuvrable on steep slopes; many have marvelled at their ability to operate in narrow basement excavations in the city.

Perhaps all that can be done is to warn all tractor drivers that the machines can and do upset, and more easily than they think. Or it may be that some slight alteration in design could put the centre of gravity still lower, and so make the machines even more stable than they are.

In any event, official investigations into the causes of such fatalities should be made; they might prove instructive and even reassuring.

WHAT IS NEWS?

Occasionally somebody gets the idea that the reason the local paper does not report every scandal that comes to public knowledge is because the publisher is afraid. That is not the reason. The reputable newspaper, especially where everyone is a neighbor to everyone else, takes no delight in giving publicity to those things that have brought disgrace to some family or heartache to some wife or mother.—From the Guelph Mercury.

Scrap Wood Derrick On Potential Well In Edmonton Area

EDMONTON. — The story of Edmonton's first oil well, spudded in 36 years ago and still not complete, was told here recently as wrecking crews razed an old wooden derrick near the Cooking Lake Trail, near here.

Many who saw the structure, before it was toppled and scrapped, believed it marked an abandoned well but W. B. C. Chamberlain, one of three partners who began the original venture in 1912, says it never had been a dead issue.

Mr. Chamberlain's partners were his two brothers-in-law, B. R. Campbell and E. G. Campbell. With their own funds they erected the first wooden derrick in 1912 and were about to attach guy wires when the structure blew down.

A year later they rebuilt the derrick and began drilling. In 1914, when war broke out, they had gone down to 2,065 feet but their funds were depleted and money expected from England was tied up due to the war. Finally, the brothers joined the army and the well was cased.

B. R. Campbell never returned from the war but his brothers came back and in 1920 the oil search on Mr. Chamberlain's land was revived when a Spokane company took a contract to drill. It held the contract for a year but took no action. Then, two Toronto firms took over but they didn't get around to drilling.

Now, new negotiations are under way with a private company which plans to erect a modern steel derrick and continue drilling of the old well.

Mr. Chamberlain is optimistic about the well's possibilities. "Indications were very hopeful when we drilled the first 2,000 feet in 1913," he said. "We found great quantities of gas in the well and at 1,800 feet there was a tremendous gas blow."

"We're still hopeful of completing the well but there have been so many disappointments that we won't believe drilling has been resumed until we see it."

Mr. Sawtell is a native of the state of Iowa, where he graduated from high school as valedictorian. While taking the pastors' course at the Moody Bible Institute of Chicago he met a Christian education student, Miss Marie Harl of Illinois. From the National Bible College of Kansas Mr. Sawtell received the degrees of bachelor and master of theology, and last year the degree from the American Bible College in Chicago. For the past year he has been taking further studies at the University of Alberta.

Fuller, of Old Fashioned Revival Hour Fame. While there, Mr. Sawtell was on the faculty of the Bible-Missionary Institute of Los Angeles.

Several years ago Mr. and Mrs. Sawtell came to Alberta for gospel radio work in which they have been engaged ever since and in this ministry they will continue.

Mr. Sawtell has been active in the Youth-for-Christ movement and two years ago was director of the movement for Alberta as well as Edmonton.

Will Grasshoppers Get Your Crop?

Farmers in southern Alberta as well as in the Provost and Drumheller areas are exposed to a serious grasshopper outbreak this year. So far the weather has been on the side of the grasshoppers. If this weather continues an early outbreak is expected before the crops get really started. It is here that the danger lies . . . older 'hoppers and a young succulent crop can mean a complete loss of the crop. Farmers are warned to prepare themselves for the attack against this pest.

W. Lobay, supervisor of crop protection, Alberta Department of Agriculture, advises that baits will be available at bait mixing stations established at strategic points throughout the infested areas. Newly-mixed baits will contain the insecticide, chlordane, as the active grasshopper killing agent.

Chlordane possesses certain advantages over sodium arsenite and sodium fluosilicate used in previous years. It is less toxic to humans and animals and has a good residual effect.

Sawdust baits should be spread thinly about 10 pounds per acre. When properly spread it should be almost impossible to see the bait on the ground. Thin spreading gives better kills than thick spreading. 'Hoppers start feeding when temperatures are around 65 to 68 degrees F. They do not feed readily when it is cold, very windy, very hot, or cloudy.

Farmers are urged to use bait in sparse range grass, grain stubble, or dry vegetation which is no longer attractive to grasshoppers as food. Use bait carefully as supplies are precious.

Chlordane sprays and dusts will also be made available to farmers. Spray and bait materials can be obtained from municipal, local improvement and special area offices as well as other central points to be selected. Sprays and dusts are particularly effective when applied on succulent growth along roadsides, railroad right-of-ways, canal banks, field margins and grain fields.

Whether baits, sprays or dusts are used, it is most important to watch closely for 'hoppers hatching so that they can be killed before they spread out from their hatching ground.

Care of Broody Hens

Laying hens may go broody at any time during the laying period but broodiness is more frequent during the spring and early summer, advises C. W. Traves, poultry commissioner, Alberta Department of Agriculture.

In the average poultry flock the broody hen is a general nuisance and the usual tendency is to treat her accordingly. We must keep in mind the fact that she is there to lay eggs and abuse will only put her out of production and into a complete moult.

Broodiness is nature's way of poultry reproduction. The bird tries to fill a nest with eggs and then hatch them so that at the commencement of the broody period she is in full lay trying to fill the nest. The correct procedure is to break the broody tendency and at the same time maintain production.

A broody coop should be provided for every flock. This coop should have a floor made of heavy one-inch wire mesh or narrow slats, the idea being to keep the breast of the broody hen cool. A coop 2 feet by 3 feet, placed against the wall at one end of the roost, will serve the average farm flock.

Never let a broody hen spend a night on the nest. The first night she is on the nest at roosting time put her in the broody coop. Feed her laying mash, whole oats and water as though she had the run of the pen. Usually, the broody tendency will be broken up in two or three days and production will continue.

Dairy Cattle Breeding Efficiency Survey

A dairy cattle breeding efficiency survey is underway. Sterility and poor breeding efficiency are a very serious problem in many districts in Canada. They result in disruption of herd breeding programs, fewer calves, slaughter of valuable cows that will not produce, and less milk. A sub-committee on sterility of the National Dairy Cattle Committee is seeking information on this condition in as many herds across Canada as possible.

Assisting in this survey in the Alberta Department of Agriculture. Through the combined efforts of the Veterinary Services branch, the Dairy branch and the Livestock branch, a questionnaire has been prepared for distribution in Alberta. It is going forward to fluid milk shippers in the Edmonton and Calgary milk sheds, to Holstein, Ayrshire, Jersey and Red Poll purebred breeders and to owners of herds under the Provincial Cow Testing Plan.

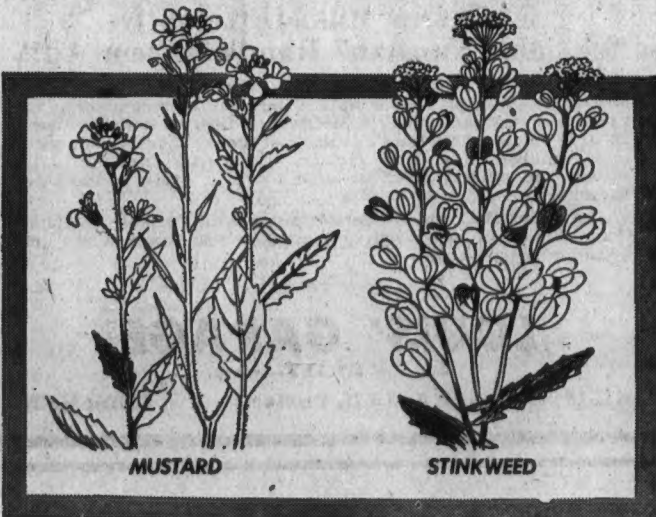

Very little research has been done in Canada on this problem and the completed questionnaires will act as a guide in carrying out investigational studies to stop these losses.

Oil Men Content With Legislation

EDMONTON.—Western oil men are "pretty well satisfied" with provincial legislation proposed to control export of Alberta's natural resources, Hon. N. E. Tanner, minister of mines and minerals, said here.

Mr. Tanner and other members of the provincial cabinet met a delegation of Western Canada Petroleum industry representatives. They reviewed the Gas Export Bill and Conservation Act amendments which will be brought before a special session of the Alberta legislature.

The cabinet minister said oil officials were particularly pleased with legislation drafted in an effort to conserve the province's gas and oil supplies. Other legislation, if approved by the session, will make obligatory licensing of gas export companies by the provincial government.

A Best Seller For 400 Years

Four hundred years and still a best seller is quite a record. That record was made on June 9th of this year (1949) by the Book of Common Prayer. This book was first published "at ye signe of ye sunne," Fleet Street, London, in 1549. Since then, hundreds of editions have appeared, not only in English, but in dozens of other languages, from Japanese to that of the Haida Indians of British Columbia, from Esquimaux to that of the Maoris of New Zealand, from the ancient tongues of Latin, Greek and Hebrew, to the modern Esperanto, so ingeniously contrived to be a second language for all.

The authorized version of the English Bible, published in 1611, and the Book of Common Prayer, first published 62 years earlier, are the books which have helped most to standardize our English tongue. For hundreds of years, when other books were scarce, these two books found their way into the homes of all who could read, both in England and also in many other English speaking lands.

When few could read, the language of the Prayer Book was heard, week by week, by multitudes of simple folk, and the dignified and euphonious phrases of that book entered the common speech of the people. We owe dozens of fine expressions, in frequent use, to the Book of Common Prayer. The Prayer Book is largely in the language of Archbishop Cranmer and of Bishop Coverdale.
